

Applied Behavior Analysis- Beyond Table Time

Myths	Facts	ABA of WI Current Client Examples
1:1 therapist to child ratio conducted at tabletop se	Goal is to acquire skills in natural learning environments	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Working with caretakers and guardians on feeding support for g-tube removal Targeting meal preparation/cooking skills in kitchen setting with respite team Learning to greet coworkers at volunteering site Teaching students observational learning skills to learn through peer modeling
Exclusively used for kids with autism	Research supports effectiveness with all ages and a variety of populations	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Safety assessment and behavior reduction of an adult with Traumatic Brain Injury Behavior reduction and community integration of an adolescent with Bipolar Disorder, Oppositional Defiant Disorder, and Attention Deficit Disorder Training teachers/staff in classroom-wide behavior management strategies Reinforcing group home staff for implementing behavior support plans with integrity
Requires time consuming & complex data collection systems	Many practical and efficient data collection procedures available	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Automated text reminder requesting how many times behavior occurred Check box as a behavior happens that day set up to automatically create graph, tracking behavior across week/month Mark occurrence of key behaviors on a calendar Teaching clients to self-monitor and record data on their own behaviors
Utilizes artificial reinforcement	Goal is for all learners to respond to naturalistic reinforcers	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Social praise Play (physical play, games, songs) Restructure schedule so that preferred activities happen frequently and after less preferred activities or tasks
Teaches rote responses	Goal is to teach learners to identify situations which require different responses	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Self-monitoring data collection Teaching multiple socially appropriate greetings ("Hey, what's up?" or "How's it going?") Learning to ask "wh" questions to build a conversation Applying steps of problem solving skill to discussions with parents to resolve barriers with completing a school project
Doesn't generalize	All skills being taught should be functional and widely used in natural life situations	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Treatment is implemented during swimming lessons Treatment is implemented at summer camp Treatment is implemented in the grocery store Treatment (desensitization) implemented at medical appointments
Creates rigidity	Goal is to teach and reinforce flexible thinking	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Increasing tolerance for disruptions to schedule Increasing waiting and compromising Improving problem solving and executive functioning skills
Relies on punishment procedures	Emphasized reinforced-based interventions	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Extra access to preferred activities/items after a new skill is demonstrated Teaching caregivers to increase positive reinforcement for good behavior Treatment plans identify positive behaviors and build in systematic positive reinforcers for using the positive behaviors